FANNIE AND FREDDIE ARE DROPPING A CREDIT BUREAU.

What changes for your buyers, and the one thing to tell them now.

FHFA IS ENDING
THE
THREE-BUREAU
CREDIT PULL ON GOVERNMENT-BACKED LOANS.

Lenders move to two bureaus instead of three,
straight from the regulator's own director.

TWO BUREAUS INSTEAD OF THREE CHANGES WHO GETS APPROVED.

FHFA Director Bill Pulte says the agency is moving Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac from the standard three-bureau credit pull to a two-bureau model, "bi-merge," for loans the GSEs back. The formal announcement is expected October 12, 2026, with lenders phasing it in over the following one to three months. Pulling fewer bureaus changes the credit picture a lender sees, especially for a buyer who looks worse on one bureau than the other two.

WHAT TO DO WITH THIS BEFORE IT'S OFFICIAL:

- 1 Flag any buyer denied or priced up in the last year.
A weak file on one bureau may not
- 2 sink them under the new model.
- 3 Ask your lender partner how they plan to phase in bi-merge.
The window is one to three
- 4 months after the October 12 announcement.
- 5 Don't promise a buyer anything changes today.
Nothing shifts until the announcement lands
- 6 and lenders implement it.
