

D.J. PARIS

EIGHT IN TEN SELLERS ONLY CALL ONE AGENT.

The listing is decided before the appointment. Four ways to be that one call.

“

YOUR LISTING PRESENTATION IS RARELY A COMPETITION.

Most sellers contact exactly one agent before they choose.

80 PERCENT.

Of recent sellers contacted only one agent before choosing who would list their home. Twelve percent called two. Five percent called three. NAR 2025 Profile of Home Buyers and Sellers.

FOUR WAYS TO BECOME THE ONE AGENT THEY CALL:

1 Write the list of people who would say your name.

37 percent of sellers were referred by a friend, neighbor, or relative. Build that list this week and count it. The number you get is your real pipeline.

2 Put every past client's closing date in your calendar.

29 percent of sellers used the agent they had already bought or sold with. One call a year on that date is what keeps you the default.

3 Post for the people who already know you.

1 percent of sellers found their agent through a social page they had no connection to. Your feed is a reminder to your circle, not a net for strangers.

4 Rehearse your pricing explanation out loud, alone.

With one agent in the room, nobody is comparing you to anyone. The reasoning has to hold up on its own, so practice it until it does.

THE TAKEAWAY

PICK FIVE PAST CLIENTS. PUT THEIR CLOSING
DATES IN YOUR CALENDAR TODAY.

Eight in ten sellers hire the only agent they contacted. Be the name they already have.