

KALE REALTY

STOP TRYING TO BE MEMORABLE.

The agents who actually get referred back do the opposite at every networking event.

“

NOBODY REFERS
THE PERSON WHO TALKED THE MOST.

They refer the one who made them feel like the most interesting person in the room.

THE GOAL ISN'T TO BE REMEMBERED. IT'S TO MAKE THEM FEEL REMEMBERED.

Most agents walk into a networking event with a sharp pitch and a stack of business cards ready to go. The agents who actually get the referral six months later did something smaller in the room: they asked a question that had nothing to do with the transaction, found the one thing the other person actually cares about, and left with one specific thing to follow up on. A prospect forgets your pitch by the parking lot. They don't forget being asked a real question.

DO THIS AT YOUR NEXT NETWORKING EVENT, NOT THAT:

- 1 Don't ask "where are you from." Ask what's gotten harder for them lately.
A real answer tells you something a pitch never will.
- 2 Don't stop at their job title. Find the thing they'd rather talk about.
A hobby, a passion project, whatever actually lights them up.
- 3 Don't leave with just a card. Leave with one specific thing to do.
A recommendation, an introduction, an article, something small and real.
- 4 Don't file the contact and forget it. Write down what you actually discussed.
The follow-up that proves you remembered is the one that gets returned.

THE TAKEAWAY

MAKE THEM FEEL
MEMORABLE. NOT THE OTHER WAY AROUND.

The follow-up that proves you remembered them is worth more than the pitch ever was.
