RESPONDING IN FIVE MINUTES BEATS A GOOD SCRIPT.

Not eventually. Not by end of day. Five minutes.

WAIT THIRTY MINUTES TO RESPOND AND YOU
LOSE THE LEAD 21
TIMES MORE OFTEN.

That's not a guess. That's the lead response data.

THE GAP THAT DECIDES MOST DEALS ISN'T SKILL. IT'S SPEED.

Agents who respond within five minutes convert leads 21 times more often than agents who wait thirty minutes, per the Real Trends/InsideSales.com Lead Response Study. Most agents aren't losing leads to a better competitor. They're losing them to their own notifications tab.

WHERE TO POINT THAT FIVE-MINUTE SPEED THIS WEEK:

- 1 Text every past client with a market update.
Not a pitch, a data point they can use today. Reply fast the second they write back.
- 2 Call your spring expireds.
Sellers who listed in March through May and didn't close are months more frustrated now, and far more open to a second conversation.
- 3 Follow up with spring buyers who went quiet.
They didn't buy in the spring. They didn't stop thinking about it either.
