"FULL SUPPORT" IS
THE LEAST
DEFINED PHRASE IN REAL ESTATE.

Every brokerage says it. Almost none write down what it means.

62 PERCENT OF NEW AGENTS EARNED UNDER $10,000 IN 2023.

NAR 2024 Member Profile, agents with two years or less of experience. That's the exact window they need a mentor who picks up, a broker who checks their contract, someone who catches the mistake before it costs the deal. It's also the window a lot of brokerages have the least reason to spend real time on an agent who isn't producing yet.

WHAT "SUPPORT" SHOULD MEAN VS. WHAT MOST AGENTS ACTUALLY GET:

- 1 A mentor who answers.
Most brokerages assign one on the roster and leave you to track them down yourself.
- 2 A second set of eyes before you sign.
Most leave your first contract review to you, alone.
- 3 Real coaching, not a login.
Most hand you a library of old webinars and call it training.
- 4 A name for who owns it when a deal falls apart.
Most tell you to "escalate" and never say to whom.
