REFUSING TO OFFER A CONCESSION IS NOW THE RISKY
MOVE, NOT THE SAFE ONE.

Almost half the sellers in the country already made that call.

THE NUMBER UNDERNEATH THE NUMBER: 47% MORE SELLERS THAN BUYERS.

Redfin's May 2026 data shows 46.2 percent of home sales included a seller concession, up from 43.1 percent a year earlier and the highest share for that month since Redfin started tracking in 2019. The reason is the ratio: 47 percent more sellers than buyers nationally right now. When sellers outnumber buyers by that margin, the concession isn't generosity. It's what closes the deal.

THREE LINES FOR THE SELLER WHO SAYS "I DON'T WANT TO GIVE ANYTHING AWAY":

- 1 "This isn't a discount. It's what gets a buyer to say yes today instead of waiting."

Reframes the concession as a closing tool, not a loss.

- 2 "Almost half the sellers in the country did this last month. You're following the market, not losing to it."

Uses the 46.2 percent figure to normalize the move before the seller feels singled out.

- 3 "There are 47% more sellers than buyers right now. The buyer has options. The concession is what keeps yours competitive."

Ties the ratio directly to the seller's own listing.
