

D.J. PARIS

4 IN 10 LISTINGS JUST GOT A PRICE CUT.

Inventory ticked up again this month. Buyers are noticing before most agents adjust the pitch.

“

A PRICE CUT COSTS MORE THAN THE DOLLARS ON THE SIGN.

It reads as a red flag to every buyer who already saw the listing at the old number. Pricing right the first time is the only way to skip that tax.

41.67 PERCENT. ACTIVE LISTINGS CARRYING A PRICE CUT RIGHT NOW.

Active inventory rose to 871,063 listings in mid-August, and 41.67 percent of them already carry a price cut, with rates still near this year's highs. HousingWire, Housing Market Tracker, "Inventory edges slightly higher year over year as rates rise," August 2026.

WHAT CHANGES ON YOUR NEXT LISTING APPOINTMENT:

- 1 Show the seller the price-cut number, not just the comps.

4 in 10 competing listings already cut once. A seller who prices right the first time skips that line entirely.
- 2 Set the price-review conversation before you sign, not after 30 days of silence.

Name the exact week you'll revisit the number if showings stall.
- 3 Lead with the rate reality, not rate optimism.

Rates are still near this year's highs. Do not promise a buyer wave the data doesn't support.

THE TAKEAWAY

PRICE IT RIGHT THE
FIRST TIME. THE
MARKET ISN'T
WAITING FOR A SECOND TRY.

41.67 percent of today's listings already learned that the hard way.