A WEBSITE ISN'T A DIFFERENTIATOR ANYMORE. MOST AGENTS ALREADY HAVE ONE.

What's actually on it is the part most agents skip.

HAVING THE PAGE ISN'T THE SAME AS USING IT.

NAR's 2026 Member Profile found 73% of agents maintain a business website. Among those sites, 82% feature the agent's own listings, 70% carry consumer education content, and 62% link back to the firm's site. That spread means a lot of agent websites are closer to a digital business card than a reason for anyone to come back twice.

WHAT TO CHECK ON YOUR OWN SITE THIS WEEK:

1 Confirm your own listings are actually on it.

82% of agent sites already do this. If yours doesn't, a buyer looking you up sees nothing current.

2 Add one thing a visitor can use before they ever call you.

A market guide, a neighborhood page, a buyer or seller checklist. 70% of agent sites already carry something like it.

3 Link back to your firm, but don't let the page be only that.

62% link out. The site still has to earn its own visit.

THE TAKEAWAY

73% ALREADY HAVE THE PAGE. USE YOURS LIKE IT'S YOUR BUSINESS.

Because it is.
